WHO SHAPES THE FUTURE OF NEW YORK CITY?

Sunday | August 9 | 10:00am

In this timely lecture, Reihan Salam examines the growing ideological divide shaping New York City and America's urban future. Drawing from his personal experience as the son of immigrants and his work leading the Manhattan Institute, Salam reflects on public safety, assimilation, capitalism, civic identity, and the changing political culture of New York. Framed in contrast to the socialist vision represented by Mayor Zohran Mamdani, the discussion explores competing ideas about opportunity, meritocracy, social justice, and the American dream — and asks what kind of city New York is becoming.

ENORMOUS WINGS
BY LAURIE FRANKEL

THURSDAY, AUGUST 20 | 3:30PM

At seventy-seven, Pepper Mills is too old to be a stranger in a strange land. She didn't choose the Vista View Retirement Community of Austin, Texas—that would be her three grown children—but when she grudgingly moves in, she not only makes new friends, she falls in love. Then the exhaustion, vomiting, and confusion start. Her children and grandchildren worry it's cancer, dementia, a stroke. But a raft of tests later, the news is even more shocking: she's pregnant.

Once word gets out, everyone wants a piece of her: the press and the paparazzi, activists and medical researchers, all descending on Vista View as Pepper tries to determine her next move. Soon Pepper has some hard decisions to make—and some she's not allowed to make.
